- b. Students may only appear as a nominee on one SRC ballot in each election.
- c. Inclusion as a nominee for a campus SRC does not change the student's eligibility to vote and the student will vote for the SRC members for which they appear on the roll of students (see clause 129).

Rolls of students

(129) The returning officer will prepare, at least one week before the close of nominations for an election, a SWRPOLC Banner report to determine active students for a roll of students for each campus/cohort of the University. See clause 7 for how student enrolments and cohorts are determined for the purpose of student representation.

- a. A person will only have their name entered on one roll of students at a time.

(137) The returning officer may reject a nomination if they are satisfied that:

- a. it is not made in accordance with the notice of elections or otherwise with this Rule
- b. the person nominated is not eligible to be elected, or
- c. the nomination was not received by the date and time prescribed by the returning officer.

(138) Once nominations have closed the returning officers check that all nominees are enrolled students and that they meet the eligibility requirements for the SRC they have nominated for.

Procedure after close of nominations

(139) If, following the close of nominations:

- a. the number of candidates is less than or equal to the number of vacancies, the returning officer will declare the candidate(s) to be elected.
- b. no candidates nominate for election or fewer candidates nominate than there are available positions, the returning officer may:

- i. extend the date for close of nominations and call for further nominations, or
 - ii. declare those nominated to have been elected to the nominated positions and declare each position not filled to be a casual vacancy, in which case the provisions for filling a casual vacancy will apply under clauses 148-149.

- j. The Student Communications Team will advise all students through email of the election results.

Voting and conduct of ballot

(141) The ballot must be conducted by a secret ballot using a compulsory preferential system of voting.

- a. An elector must cast a vote by placing the number "1" opposite the name of the candidate to whom the elector wishes to give their first preference vote. The elector must then give contingent votes up to the number of vacant representative roles (e.g., if there are 5 vacancies, the elector must number 1 to 5) on their ballot in order of their preference by placing numbers opposite the names of the other candidates to unambiguously indicate by numerical sequence the order of the elector's preferences.
- b. A person must not in any way disclose or assist another person in disclosing any information as to how any particular elector voted in any election.

(142) The results will be produced automatically by the electronic voting system. Result sheets will be produced as soon as practicable following the time scheduled for the close of voting.

(143) The candidate who received the largest number of first preference votes will be declared elected. Where more than one candidate in an election is required to be elected, the candidate who has received the second-largest number of first preference votes will also be declared elected. This procedure will be followed until the number of candidates declared elected equals the number of vacancies required to be filled.

(144) In the case of two or more candidates receiving the same number of first preference votes and a result cannot be declared under the provisions of clause 146, the returning officer will exclude the candidate with the fewest number of first preference votes. Each ballot allocated to the excluded candidate will be reallocated to the voter's next preference vote. This procedure will be followed until the number of candidates declared elected equals the number of vacancies required to be filled.

(145) If after the final count, two or more candidates have an equal number of votes and a result cannot be declared under the provisions of clauses 143-144, the returning officer will determine by lot which of the candidates is to be declared elected. This procedure will be followed until the number of candidates declared elected equals the number of vacancies required to be filled.

Withdrawal, death or ineligibility of candidate

(146) If, before the close of nominations, a candidate dies or becomes incapacitated, withdraws their nomination or becomes ineligible, the candidate's name should be removed from the ballot (if practicable).

(147) If, before the declaration of the poll for an election, a candidate at the election dies, becomes ineligible for election or withdraws their nomination (and it was not practicable to remove the candidate's name from the ballot), the election is to proceed as if:

- a. the candidate had not been nominated for election
- b. that candidate's name had not been included on the ballot, and
- c. any vote for that candidate had not been cast.

Casual vacancies

The secret ballots may be conducted by online means such as an online poll. Each SRC member is entitled to cast a vote for one of the candidates only.
- f. If one candidate has received more votes than any other, the returning officer will declare that candidate to be elected.
- g. If two or more candidates receive an equal number of votes cast at the poll and no other candidate receives more votes than those candidates, the returning officer must conduct a further poll by secret ballot. Only the candidates that received an equal number of votes in the first poll are eligible to be voted for in the second poll.
- h. Each committee member is entitled to vote for one of the candidates on the second poll only.
